

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

Please replace the 2nd Paragraph on page 3, continuing to page 4, with the following paragraph rewritten in amendment format:

As a consequence, important visual stimuli in the periphery of a person's vision may remain undetected when cognitively demanding tasks involving central vision are being performed. Thus, the proximity of the MHE to the vulnerable lower sections of an upright section is difficult to monitor in a manner that is reasonably practicable and the risk of impacts occurring increases. Invariably, such damage has direct costs to an organization's ~~organization's~~ resources. Warehouse maintenance may absorb an average of only five per cent of total warehouse costs but any neglect of the issues can have cost consequences far beyond that fraction. Damage to racking incurs both direct costs (e.g. component replacement and labor costs, damaged stock, damaged MHE, accidents and incidents) and indirect costs (e.g. reduced storage capacity, administration costs, employee absence, litigation, increased insurance premium, adverse publicity and overall disruption of business).
